The building will house the offices for the new central billing program for the city. The first combined bill for water and gas customers will be ready April 30, and due May 10. Customers may pay both the water and gas and the electric bills with one check, either at the central billing office or at the Murray Electric System, even though the electric system will maintain a separate bill for its customers.

McAlister And Bohannon Are Named To New Posts By Board

Committees to make recommendations for two new principals in the county school system will be appointed, after the two vacancies were created at the regular meeting of the Calloway County School Board last night.

The committees will make recommendations on replacements for Ron McAlister, principal of Calloway County High School, and Johnny Bohannon, principal of North Elementary School.

The vacancies were created after McAlister was named as assistant superintendent of the school system, and Bohannon was named supervisor of instruction. These appointments will be effective July 1.

McAlister will succeed former superintendent William Miller, who has served as assistant superintendent for the past year. Bohannon will succeed Edward Curd, who is retiring this year.

Other retirements include Charlene Curd, a teacher at Southwest Elementary School. Mrs. Curd and her husband, Edward, have a combined total of nearly 80 years service with the county school system.

Also retiring are Dulcie Douglass, a teacher at North Elementary; Geraldine Myers, a teacher at Calloway High, and Muriel Wright, a cook at East Elementary.

In other action, the board approved payment for five new buses, which have been ordered. The total cost for these five buses will be $60,220.

Also, two routine change orders were approved for the construction at the high school, which is expected to be virtually complete in about a month. The addition includes cafeteria and library facilities. Payments were approved to Castleberry Associates Architects and Crouch Construction Co. in connection with the construction.

The board discussed the possibilities of an addition to the county school bus garage, and the construction of a shower and change house on the high school campus. No action was taken on the preliminary discussion.

Supt. Dr. Jack Rose reported that the football field at the high school is ready to sow, with most of the labor having been donated to prepare the field.

School Attorney Don Overbey discussed the legal implications involved in the new EPA standards which will affect the sewage treatment plants at the elementary schools. If the board must comply with all standards immediately, the cost is estimated at $90,000. An investigation is continuing into that situation.

Supt. Rose reported that the contract is nearly complete with Murray State University concerning the county kindergarten facility on the MSU campus.

The board recessed until next Thursday, when a special meeting will be held with Jim Daniels, from the state department of education concerning the findings of a facility survey team here last November.

Windows To Be Replaced At Murray Middle School

Contracts for replacing 18 windows at the Murray Middle School were approved by the Murray City School Board at its regular meeting last night.

Supt. Fred Schultz reported that Architect Pat Gingles had studied the proposal made by the J. Lee Gregory Co. and recommended two contracts which would comply with the terms and specifications of the original recommendations on the middle school renovation.

The contracts would include six openings, with 18 windows, and Gingles recommended that the work be completed before the new ceiling is installed on the third floor.

Under one contract, all aluminum frames would be furnished, and window units delivered and properly stored on the job site at a cost of $2,311. Under the second contract, the existing windows would be removed, and the new units installed at a cost of $2,100.

The superintendent also informed the board that consideration should be given to the future collection of the school property tax. The City of Murray is now collecting about $600,000 per year for the city school district, at a cost of about $5,000. Next year, the state will collect the first 30 cents of the property tax through the sheriff's office, which will reduce the amount collected by the city by approximately half. However, the board voted to request the city to continue to collect the remainder of the tax at approximately a $5,000 service charge, due to the fact that the amount of work involved and the number of transactions will be the same.

Assistant Supt. Eli Alexander reported on the fall and winter sports program. He informed the board that receipts total $34,581.87 to date, and disbursements total $24,017.90, for income over expenditures of $10,563.97. He pointed out that the spring sports program is not income producing, and will cost about $2,500 to operate this spring.

Alexander also pointed out that the cost for equipment, insurance, and awards has also increased. The consensus of the board was that some source of additional funds will eventually have to be found to continue the current level of sports programs, and Alexander was requested to make further recommendations in the area of awards for sports programs.

The school calendar for 1977-78 was approved as presented by the board last night. The calendar calls for registration for students on Aug. 22, with 180 days of instruction.

Several Items Handled By Council At Meeting

A more lengthy than normal agenda was handled in near record time by the Murray Common Council which met in regular session last night.

The council accepted the audit of the 1976 city police court records presented by Tom Shirley, CPA. Of a total of $54,581.02 collected in fines, forfeitures and court costs during the year, the court had turned over $53,017.39 to the city's general fund.

The remainder, with the exception of a cash balance on hand at the close of the year of $457, went to library costs, jury duty, refunds due to corrections or reversals and bank charges.

Shirley told the council that bookkeeping procedures being used by the police court greatly reduced the chances of funds not being accounted for.

The council approved on second and final reading two ordinances which bring penalty, tap-on and other like changes in the Murray Natural Gas, Water and Sewer and Electric systems in line with each other.

An ordinance designed to rezone a lot owned by Loretta Jobs on Sycamore Street from residential to professional office received a 6-3 favorable vote but was not approved, according to city attorney Wells Overbey. Overbey advised the council that to change a zoning ordinance required approval of a majority (7 votes) of the entire council.

At the time the vote was taken, only nine of the council's 12 members were present. Voting in favor of the motion to rezone were council members Tom Rushing, Ruby Hale, Dr. C. C. Lowry, Woodrow Rickman, Buel Stalls Jr., and Art Lee. Voting to deny the zoning change were councilmen Howard Koenen, Dave Willis and Ed Chrisman.

Council members Melvin Henley, Lloyd Arnold and W. R. Furches were absent from the meeting at the time of the vote, however, Henley and Arnold arrived in a few minutes later.

The council approved reappointment of John Youngerman to the Murray-Calloway County Hospital Board. Youngerman was selected from a list of nominees submitted by the Murray-Calloway County Jaycees as stipulated by the hospital bylaws.

Councilman Ed Chrisman reported on first quarter activities in Murray Police Court. Chrisman said that total fines and forfeitures collected amounted to $11,341 and that $9,807 of that amount had been turned over to the city.

The council approved the purchase of a new fire hose for the fire department at a cost of $7,191.25 and the purchase of up to 35 new parking meters at a cost of $68.50 each.

Councilman Chrisman reported that the police and traffic committees had met concerning parking in the downtown area and pointed out that the committees feel parking privileges in the downtown area are being abused.

"The parking meters were installed to turn over the downtown traffic for the benefit of the merchants, and not as a revenue producer for the city," Chrisman said, "and the system was not designed for the business firms, merchants, professional and government offices nor their personnel for parking during the hours of 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Chrisman said that many people are parking at meters longer than the two-hour limit and pointed out that city ordinances prohibit the feeding of a meter for a period longer than two hours. He said that after a vehicle receives a 50 cent ticket for over-parking, and the vehicle is not moved, the second ticket will be for $5.

Chrisman indicated that ticketing of improperly parked vehicles will be more strictly enforced in the future.

He also said that loading and unloading zones at some businesses are being abused. "They mean exactly what the words imply," Chrisman said, "and business firm's vehicles parking in those areas, unless specifically loading or unloading, are in violation."

A loading zone does not permit special privileges to any business regardless of where the zones may be, he pointed out. Chrisman also pointed out that parking in alleys is also a violation of the city's ordinances.

Dr. Hugh Oakley To Be Honored Saturday

By M. C. GARROTT

The man largely responsible for the establishment, growth and development of the College of Industry and Technology at Murray State University will be honored Saturday night, April 16, as he approaches retirement.

Dr. Hugh L. Oakley, dean of the college and a key administrator and faculty member at Murray State since 1946, is retiring June 30.

Educators, administrators, former students and friends of the dean will gather at 7 p.m. at the Woman's Clubhouse in Murray to honor and pay tribute to him in recognition of his 31 years at Murray and the leadership he has provided in guiding its industrial arts and industrial education programs to national prominence.

A native of Cadiz and a graduate of Western Kentucky University, Oakley was brought to the campus by the late President Ralph H. Woods and given the assignment of planning and initiating an industrial arts program. At the time, he was in the Navy and stationed at the naval air station at Millington, Tenn.

He was the only faculty member in the new department during the 1946-47 school year, teaching two courses of engineering drawing, two in descriptive geometry and one general laboratory course in temporary quarters in the Administration Building, known today as Wraith Hall. Also quartered in the building in addition to all the administrative offices were the departments of chemistry, biology and physics.

The following year, the new program was moved to newly remodeled quarters in the rear portion of what is now Lovett Auditorium, most of the work on which had been done by the future dean and his students.

"I don't believe I have ever been associated with a finer group of young men," he said as he recalled the project. "They worked day and night, Saturdays and most of their Sunday afternoons without pay to help build the classrooms, tables, cabinets and other pieces of equipment we needed, most of the materials for which was donated."

In 1947, an additional faculty member was employed, Dr. Donald B. Hackett, now chairman of the Department of Industrial Arts at Georgia Southern College, Statesboro. Together, he and Oakley taught four classes of 24 students each.

It was in 1965 when Dr. Woods reorganized the institution's academic structure into "schools," and the departments of agriculture, home economics, nursing and industrial education were put into it with Oakley as its dean.

In the fall of 1975, the board of regents authorized the establishment of the College of Industry and Technology with five departments — Engineering and Industrial Technology, Graphic Arts, Industrial Arts Education, Vocational Technical Education and Military Science — and 34 faculty members in it. Oakley was named its dean.

Looking back on days when the university's annual operating budget was in the $250,000 range, the retiring dean recalled how he, Dr. Woods and others would scour the country for surplus equipment for their shops and offices. "After the war," he said, "we had faculty members who didn't even have a desk, much less an office."

A portion of the modern, fully-equipped building housing the college today is made up of three surplus buildings the dean salvaged from a wartime ordnance plant at Iliopolis, Ill.

The salvaged buildings were dismantled, brought to the campus and re-erected at a total cost to the institution of only $1,638 - $238 for lumber to tie the buildings together and $1,400 for new, steel windows.

"I remember," Oakley said, "because I took a truck and went for the lumber. When I handed the bill to Mr. (R. E.) Broach, he almost fell off his chair." It was in these improvised buildings, equipped with machines and tools salvaged from the federal government, that the program was housed until its present facilities were occupied in 1965.

DR. HUGH L. OAKLEY

A member and past president of the Murray Rotary Club, Oakley is a charter member of the Murray-Calloway County Airport Board, and has served as its chairman for the past 10 years. He is a past president of both the Kentucky Industrial Arts Association and the Kentucky Industrial Education Association, and has served on the executive board of the American Vocational Education Association. He long has been active in Boy Scout work and the First Baptist Church.

His future plans include "doing a lot of the things I have never had time to do," like writing, traveling and "touching base" with former students and associates.

"It has been great personal satisfaction for me to see young people, uncertain of their abilities and future, develop into successful, contributing citizens in their fields," he said. Murray's industrial arts and education graduates can be found on the campus of virtually every college of any significance and in most school districts in the country, he noted with pride.

George Lilly, a long-time associate and chairman of the Department of Industrial Arts Education, will serve as master of ceremonies at the dinner, which begins at 7 p.m.

Bank Announces Grand Opening On Three Days

The officers and staff of the Bank of Murray will host a grand opening of their new Main Offices, Downtown, during banking hours on April 26-27, and 28. The festivities will begin with a ribbon cutting at 9:00 a.m. on April 26. The ribbon will be made of money and will be donated to a local charity, which has been selected by the bank employees.

Following this brief ceremony the public is invited to enter the building from the Fourth Street entrance and tour the banking facility. The tour will include the following:

On the main floor, visitors will be shown the security video surveillance system, teller area, customer services, vault area, central purchasing, elevators, and loan departments. People will be encouraged to register for the drawing of products which are manufactured locally.

Visitors will then be directed to the third floor where they will be shown the P. B. X. switchboard, customer service area, bookkeeping department, auditing department, credit department, proof department, mailing department, record vault, board of directors room, and the employee dining room, where they will be served refreshments.

From the third floor, visitors will then be directed to the lower level, where they will receive gifts and view the three drive-in teller windows as they exit the building on Third Street.

The opening has been scheduled over a three-day period to afford the public the opportunity to see the bank in actual operations, a spokesman said. Guides will be stationed throughout the banking facility to answer questions. The public is invited and encouraged to participate in this grand opening, the spokesman added.

In addition to the new banking facility downtown, the public is also invited to tour the new South Manor Branch on South 12th Street. This facility features three drive-in windows and a security system which is unique in this area. The South Manor Branch is staffed by the same personnel who worked at the Downtown Branch prior to its relocation on South 12th Street.

Dear Abby

How To Tell Quacks
From Counselors

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have noticed that you frequently advise your readers to see a marriage counselor. A married friend of mine once went to a marriage counselor she found through an ad in the paper, and you wouldn't believe some of the suggestions he made to her. He told her to get herself a "boyfriend"—and the younger, the better. He also encouraged her to join a nudist colony.

He said HE was a member, and he even showed her one of the "camp" magazines. She paid him for a year's "counseling" in advance, and after five weeks she went to his office for an appointment and found that he had moved and left no forwarding address.

I am not saying all marriage counselors are like this one, but how is a person supposed to know the honest ones from the crooks? They all call themselves "Doctor," and their walls are covered with diplomas that look "real" to the average person.

MRS. H.W.S.

DEAR MRS. H.W.S.: Yours is an excellent question. If you are uncertain about the qualifications of those who advertise themselves as "marriage counselors," ask your family doctor, clergyman or the Better Business Bureau to recommend one. If there is a university in (or near) your town, write to the head of the psychology department for a recommendation.

If the above sources are unavailable to you write to The American Association of Marriage and Family Counselors, 225 Yale Avenue, Claremont, Calif. 91711, and ask them to refer you to someone in your area.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from Paul's wife whose husband had the annoying habit of salting his food before tasting it reminds me of a supposedly true story.

A personnel director who was responsible for hiring executives would always invite the job applicant out for lunch as part of the interview. If he salted his food before tasting it, he deduced that he made decisions without first investigating.

Interesting?

M.E.H.

DEAR M.E.H.: Yes. And a reasonable conclusion, too.

DEAR ABBY: What is meant by "immediate family"? I say it includes mother, father, sisters and brothers. My friend says it also includes aunts, uncles and cousins.
Who is right?

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: You are.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069.

The Second Word From The Cross

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This past Good Friday the Murray-Calloway County Ministerial Association sponsored their Fourth Annual Community-wide Service at the First United Methodist Church with seven different ministers speaking on the "Seven Last Words of Christ from the Cross." Here is the Meditation delivered on the Second Word by the Rev. C. E. Timberlake of St. John's Baptist Church.)

THE SECOND WORD FROM THE CROSS
By The Rev. C. E. Timberlake
St. John Baptist Church
Text: Luke 23:39-43

"Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."
We shall not waste any time trying to give a geographical location of paradise, although it is a very important subject to discuss. The point here is that Jesus answered the call of a distressing thief who wanted to be remembered. Jesus said "today shalt thou be with me in paradise." As far as I am concerned paradise is wherever Jesus is. Since he is omnipresent, man can experience a sense of paradise even in a world such as we live in, and in the world to come he will have the assurance of living in complete spiritual bliss.

Take a look with me if you will at Calvary's hill. There we see three crosses and three men, one man on each cross. Two of these men are criminals; the other one is the Son of God. Two are dying because they went about doing bad; the other one is dying because he went about doing good.

Death on a cross was a horrible way to die, and an awful sight to look upon. Men were stripped of their clothing, exposed to the heat of the blistering sun, and Jesus was no exception. He who was born as King dies like a criminal. However we must admit that he is an unusual King who talked, walked, and ate with the kingless; unusual in that Kings usually are born in royalty. He was born in a stable. Kings usually live in castles; He had no where to lay his head. Kings are usually rich; He became poor that we might be rich. Kings are usually served; He came not to be served but to serve. Kings usually have their own transportation; He borrowed a colt to ride into Jerusalem. Kings usually live in splendor and in most cases die with a host of aides at their side; Jesus died with two thieves at his side numbered with the transgressors.

Jesus died as he lived; He lived a life of service. Even though he only lived for about thirty-three and a half years, He served more people, and had a greater impact upon the world than any man that has ever walked the earth. During his earthly ministry he sought to meet the needs of those who called on him. On the cross at the very threshold of death he continued to serve by answering the call of a criminal. Jesus died as he lived in that he never lost his individuality. Although Jesus was and is concerned about everything; his anxiety for the lost made him say "I must work the works of Him who sent me while it is day for the night will come when no man can work." He was a busy man who dealt with multitudes; but he always had time to deal with people on an individual basis: like one man by the pool, one woman with seven demons, and one woman with an issue of blood. He dealt with one man who came to him by night, one man who was mentally deranged, one man who climbed a tree, and one blind man by the side of a road. On the cross he had time to remember one dying thief who asked to be remembered.

He died as he lived in that his love for man never changed. He is a perfect example of love, in fact, he is the personification of love. He loved the unlovable; he loved the rich and the poor, the black and the white; the good and the bad; the right and the wrong. We saw his love in action while walking the dusty roads of Galilee and the muddy shores of the Jordan River; and yes even when climbing the Samaritan Mountains we saw his changeless love in action. Now in the closing moments of his earthly life we see his love reaching out to a criminal who needed love and pardon.

It is well that we take a good look at the measureless love of Christ as he accepts the criminal on the cross. There is a lesson here that we should study carefully for we are somewhat hesitant about accepting and forgiving those who have committed crimes. They may have served their time, and made it known that they want community forgiveness; but we find very few who are willing to forgive and to accept them. We may be in for a big surprise to discover the small number in our churches who are willing to forgive and to accept those who want another chance to start a new life.

There is one from Nazareth who will forgive and accept all men who believe, and will wipe their records clean. This was his mission to the world to clean the dirty records of men. When society says kill them, Jesus says heal them. When society says they are hopeless, Jesus says they can be rehabilitated. When society says they are garbage, Jesus says they are gold. Society says they are junk, Jesus says they are savable. He died on the cross as he lived by giving the thief a faith to die with. While our eyes are still focused on the hill, let us give a brief comparison as to why, what, and how these three men were dying.

Jesus was dying because he was too good; the thieves were dying because they were too bad. Jesus was dying because his standard of living was too high; they were dying because their's was too low.

Jesus was dying for the sins of the world; they were dying in their sins. Jesus was dying like a criminal; the thieves were dying as criminals.

Jesus was innocent; they were guilty. One thief asked Jesus why didn't he save himself; the other one asked to be saved.

The opportunity presented itself to both; only one took advantage of it. One received Christ; the other one rejected him.

One died in Christ; the other one died out of Christ.

The dying thief saw Jesus dying like no other man he had ever seen. He saw Jesus going somewhere and wanted to go with him. He pleaded "Lord remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." Jesus stopped dying to answer a call of distress. In fact he answered better than the thief asked. Jesus said, "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise." The thief was remembered before the hours of darkness; before the triumphant cry "it is finished," yes, he was remembered before the rending of the temple veil, even before the shivering of the rocks, and before the Centurions confession that "surely this must have been the Son of God. Christ said 'today.' Not before I come back to consummate my Kingdom - 'today' - not next week - not when the roll is called up yonder - but 'today' - 'shalt thou be with me in paradise.'"

This was the greatest experience the thief had ever had! No doubt it was the end of a long search, for he had found paradise on a hill called Calvary. I believe the hymn writer tells how he really felt when he penned these words: There is a fountain filled with blood, drawn from Immanuel's veins. And sinners plunged beneath that flood, lose all their guilty stains. The dying thief rejoiced to see that fountain in his day.

Amen.

JESUS ASSURES HIS DISCIPLES

By H. C. Chiles

Two disciples, Cleopas and his unnamed companion, had gone from Emmaus to Jerusalem, a distance of about seven and one-half miles, to observe the feast of the Passover. While they were in Jerusalem Christ was crucified. Over that they grieved deeply. Disappointed and disconsolate, they never expected to see Christ again. As they started home, they could not think of anything except the greatness of their former hope and the bitterness of their present state.

Luke 24:13-16

As these disciples walked wearily along the road together, discussing their blighted hopes, a Stranger overtook them and listened to their conversation. At length He asked, "What are the words that ye are exchanging with one another as ye walk?" Quickly expressing his surprise, Cleopas inquired if He had been dwelling in Jerusalem and had not heard about the things which had taken place there during the last few days. He replied, "What things?" The disciples answered by telling Him about Jesus of Nazareth, the fate which had befallen Him, and their own disappointment. Beginning with the writings of Moses and continuing through the prophets, the Stranger expounded the Scriptures and authenticated the events which had taken place. Their hearts were warmed strangely, but before He had finished they had arrived at Emmaus.

Luke 24:25-35

With Oriental insistence, the disciples constrained Him to accept their cordial hospitality. They were so completely fascinated by His talk that they did not want Him to go farther. They said, "Abide with us; for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent." This Stranger was just as willing to be entertained as they were to offer hospitality to Him. He never refused hospitality, although it was refused Him on different occasions. He never refused to enter the house of any man, when invited properly.

No sooner had He entered the home until He changed from guest to host. At the evening meal, "He took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them." Instantly they recognized Him as the Lord Jesus Christ and immediately He vanished from their sight. He had convinced them that He had risen from the dead and had given them the hope and inspiration which that fact was calculated to bring. Their recognition of Him caused a new hope to surge through their souls. They possessed a joy they had never known. Their recognition of Christ alive from the dead so revived and thrilled them that they immediately departed for Jerusalem with quick and eager pace, to bring to the other disciples the good news that they had seen and heard the Lord.

The secret of the burning hearts of those disciples was personal, intimate, and vital fellowship with the living Christ, as He opened to them the treasures of the scriptures. Nobody ever expounded the Scriptures as Christ did to those two heavy-hearted disciples, changing their ignorance into knowledge, their doubt into faith, their despondency into hope, and their cold hearts into burning ones. Note that it was when Christ talked to them about the things which were taught in the Scriptures that their hearts were aflame and not while they were doing the talking. Certainly one of the greatest needs of Christians in these days of unparalleled difficulties and wonderful opportunities is hearts that are aflame for Christ.

When they arrived in Jerusalem, they readily found the eleven disciples already excited by the report that Peter had seen the risen Lord. Zealously they rehearsed their experience with Christ on the road to and in Emmaus, thereby adding to the chorus of certitude and gratitude that the Saviour had risen from the dead.

In the subsequent verses we are taught that Christ assured the disciples that He was their living Lord. As Christians, let us ever be grateful for the wonderful privilege of walking with the Lord Jesus Christ, our Saviour, in intimate fellowship.

'Advertisements'

The Rev. Horace E. Duke, pastor of the Locust Grove Church of the Nazarene, Kirksey, has submitted an article from the Church Sunday School publication, Standard, published at Kansas City, Mo., for this week's column. Rev. Duke obtained permission from the magazine and the author to reprint the article as follows:

"Advertisements"
By Muriel Larson
Greenville, S. C.

"Every morning the school traffic patrolwoman stood at her station, conducting traffic and helping the children get across the road safely. Every morning a certain man came down that road, slammed on his brakes, and scowled at her. As his car passed, she noticed a sign on the back saying, 'God Loves You.' She had a slight acquaintance with the man and knew that he professed to be a Christian.

"Finally she could take it no longer. One day she waved the man over to the curb. 'Sir,' she said, 'you have a sign on your car that says 'God Loves You.' But anyone looking at you would get a different message. Now I suggest that you either remove the sign or take that scowl off your face!'"

"The man looked at her in surprise and embarrassment. Then he drove on.

Bible Thought

And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved. Acts 2:47.

The church that preaches Christ crucified and raised from the dead is the church that is growing spiritually and numerically.

The Editor's Notebook

By GENE McCUTCHEON
Murray Ledger & Times Editor

We read the other day of a newly devised "fail-proof" way to keep dogs off the street without fencing. The manufacturer, the Invisible Fence Co., bases the principle on surrounding an entire yard area (front, back sides and driveway with a radio signal.

The system is made up of three components: a small radio transmitter that plugs into any socket, a copper wire that receives and relays the radio signal and a light-weight leather collar with a built-in transistorized radio signal.

A radio transmitter is plugged into any socket in the home and transmits a signal through the copper wire, which is installed a few inches beneath the surface around the boundary of the property. When the dog comes within a pre-determined distance of the boundary, the collar receives a radio signal and the dog gets a restraining correction from the collar.

The correction is similar to that of a choke-chain, the company says, but without pain.

The only qualification is size. A dog must be over 20 pounds because the 7-ounce collar would be an annoyance to smaller dogs.

Incredible if it works.

The deadline for filing your federal and state income tax returns is midnight tonight so if you haven't completed yours, you'd better get busy.

The IRS has pointed out that last-minute filers tend to make more errors than those who file earlier in the year and urges the last-minute filer to be sure to double-check their returns. Taxpayers should look for such common errors as incorrect arithmetic, use of the wrong line or column in the tax table, or failure to sign the return.

The IRS says that residents who file their returns at the last minute may have to wait longer than expected for a refund because taxpayer errors frequently delay processing of returns at service centers until the mistakes can be resolved.

One thing that will help minimize the delays, the IRS says, is making sure that the pre-addressed label is placed at the top of the return and the return is mailed in the coded envelope provided with the tax package.

HEARTLINE is a service for senior citizens of all ages. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write HEARTLINE, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Senior citizens will receive prompt replies, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I am a 37-year-old woman with two children. I worked steadily under Social Security until two years ago when I was badly injured in an automobile accident. I've never been able to go back to work. Can I get Social Security disability payments for myself and my children even though my husband is working and supporting us? J.W.

ANSWER: You should check with your Social Security office immediately because it's possible that you may have already lost some monthly benefits by waiting too long to file your claim. (Under the Social Security law, benefits can only be paid retroactively for 12 months.)

The fact that your husband is working will not affect your eligibility for benefits.

HEARTLINE: My next door neighbor recently joined an organization called the National Association of Older Americans (NAOA). I have never heard of this group but my neighbor is highly impressed by them. Do you know anything about this group? J.S.T.

ANSWER: Heartline has heard of the NAOA and we have complete literature on their organization. Yours has already been sent to you. For a free pamphlet explaining the NAOA, write to: Heartline—NAOA, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

HEARTLINE: In reference to health insurance policies, what is a policy provision?

ANSWER: Health insurance companies, by law, must incorporate into their policies certain general provisions designed to provide fair and equal treatment for persons being insured. Various parts of a given policy can and do differ from one company to another. It is not the intent of the state to dictate exactly and in all instances what a company is to include in its policy contracts. If this were the case, the state itself might as well do the insuring — and this is not the way things work in a free and competitive society.

If you have other questions about health insurance in general, "Heartline's Guide to Health Insurance" is for you. This book is in easy-to-understand, question-and-answer form, and it includes a policy check list that can help you nail down the specifics of any present or future health insurance policies.

To order, send $1.50 to "Heartline's Guide to Health Insurance," P. O. Box 4994, Des Moines, Iowa 50306. Please allow six weeks for delivery.

Let's Stay Well

Treating Plantar Warts

Q: Mr. A.L. reports that he is a "semi-desperate tenderfoot" because of several recurrences of a wart on the bottom of his foot. His physician tried surgical removal on one occasion and electric needle coagulation and curettage later when the wart returned. He admits disappointment.

The wart and its treatment have been painful and disabling. Mr. A.L. asks for suggestions of treatment that might be curative.

A: As you know, warts are caused by a virus infection. Some clear up spontaneously, and others are quite resistant to treatment. The spontaneous "cures" are thought to be due to unexplained upswings in the immunity of the individual. Also, when immunity is depressed, as in renal transplant patients, many people (about 40 per cent) develop warts in a year.

The human wart virus has never been grown successfully in cultures to serve as a source for a vaccine similar to the one that appears to be helpful in treating cattle.

A new treatment of warts may be available soon. Robert Olson, M.D., a dermatologist at the University of Oklahoma, has obtained good results by the injection of bleomycin into plantar warts. The small dose has had no adverse general effects and causes a gradual shrinking and sloughing of the wart. In large warts, injections may have to be repeated at monthly intervals. Bleomycin has not yet been approved by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for use on warts. If future tests continue to be as effective as early ones, approval probably will be given.

You and your physician may want to discuss the possibility of a consultation regarding the treatment of choice to be used now in your case.

Glaucoma May Run in Families

Q: Mrs. I.I. asks whether glaucoma is inherited.

A: Some years ago it was observed that glaucoma has a tendency to run in families.

Therefore, regular eye examinations are recommended for those with a family history of the eye disease. Early diagnosis of any increase in pressure in the eyeball will help to prevent damage to vision and will help to slow or stop the progress of the disease. Chronic forms of it may not produce symptoms in the early stages and the disease can only be detected by a test that is simple, quick, and relatively inexpensive.

Glaucoma may appear in any person, especially in later years. Patients over age 50 should have their ocular pressure checked routinely when they have a regular checkup.

AN INVESTMENT IN YOUR FUTURE

...Attend Church*His Eye Is On the Sparrow

There is a time in every person's life when he feels that what he does doesn't matter very much. He feels that he is unimportant in the larger scheme of things. The world is so vast and so complex that it must seem that what one man does is of little value. Yet in Luke 12:6-7 we read, "Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings and not one of them is forgotten before God? But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not therefore: ye are of more value than many sparrows."

If God values each sparrow, then how much more important is the life of each man? To God every living soul is important. Remember, no matter who you are, rich or poor, famous or unknown, God cares for you.

Del Purcell: Out Of Shadows And Finding His Own Lifestyle

By MIKE BRANDON

Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Hank Williams Junior once recorded a song called "Standing in the Shadows."

It was a song about how he'd found life tough after standing in the shadows of his late and famous father.

For Del Purcell, there's been a lot of standing in the shadows. But slowly and surely, and with confidence, Del Purcell has moved out of the shadow.

"Del Purcell? Sure, he's Mel's older brother isn't he?" Del has probably heard that hundreds of times but it doesn't bother him. He has matured and knows what he wants in life.

Playing his final year of tennis at Murray State, Purcell has his sights set on a job. He wants to become a teaching professional.

"All three of us (Mel along with Bennie, the father and MSU tennis coach) started playing tennis about the same time. I think I was about nine and Mel was around five," Del said.

"I never really got serious about tennis until I was about 15. I played baseball in the summer and enjoyed all the other sports and I really kind of got a late start.

"Mel's just a natural athlete. He started young and has stayed with it and he's going to have the talent to go on and pursue a career as a professional.

"But I feel I can relate to people pretty well and get things said so they can understand. Plus I think my experience as a player will also help a lot in becoming a teaching pro.

"I really pride myself in teaching so that's what I want to do. Mel's future and mine are just two different aspects of the game," Del added.

When Mel was in the fifth grade, he earned a trip to the State Tournament in the singles play. By the time Mel was in the seventh, Del was a junior and the two combined to win the State Championship in the doubles. They repeated Del's senior year.

After he had completed his senior year at Murray High, Del went to Massachusetts and worked in a tennis camp. He had hoped to get a scholarship to Memphis State.

He was told there were no more scholarships left at Memphis so he signed to play under his father at Murray State. Later, a scholarship opened at Memphis but it was too late.

Both Bennie and Del believe the father-son, coach-athlete aspect of their relationship has helped.

Of course, with Bennie being the coach, he has more time to spend with Del. And of course, with Bennie himself being a great teacher, Del has reaped the benefits.

"He's improved his game every year," Bennie said.

"He's a smart player and has a lot more self control now. Used to, Del would stay on the baseline and try to win. He tried to hit too many shots to make winners.

"His strongest points are his backhand and his serve. And now he's coming to the net that didn't do anything."

Bouton had tried a comeback in the latter part of the 1975 season with Portland, Ore., in the Northwest League. He gave it up last season to star in a television series based on his book. The series was canceled after only five weeks.

He said he began calling the major league clubs in January trying to get one of them just to let him show up for spring training. Of the 12 clubs he contacted, only the White Sox told him he could come, but with the condition that he pay his own expenses.

"I wouldn't want to be called up as a box-office attraction," he said. "I only want to go to the big leagues if I could win up there. Knuckballers go on and on. Hoyt Wilhelm was still throwing them in the big leagues at 49, which gives me a good 11 years."

Bouton said the all-night bus rides and playing before as few as 500 fans in small parks throughout the South does not bother him. Nor does the idea he might fail.

"It might be a sad story; if I don't do well, I'll consider it a sad story," he said. "I'm sure a doctor could tell me why I'm doing this more than I can. Sometimes I question it myself: 'Am I going nuts?' But then five minutes later I'm having fun."

more and has really improved his game," Bennie added.

As a freshman at Murray state, Del played the number five singles. As a sophomore and junior, he played at number four. During those three years, he averaged 16 wins per season.

But this year, Del is playing at the top, the number one singles.

"It doesn't seem that much tougher playing at number one but I guess that's why I've lost so many close matches this year," Del said.

"I feel as the season goes on, I will be able to convert some of those close losses into wins."

There's no such thing as an easy match when you are playing at number one. Even the schools that don't have outstanding tennis programs still have their best at number one so you are never able to overlook anyone.

Del's chances for the upcoming OVC Tournament will be the luck of the draw. All the number one players for the eight schools in the league will draw and they'll fight it out from there.

It's going to be tough. Western Kentucky's Svante Maistern, who won at number three last year, has moved up to number one for the Hilltoppers and will give Purcell rugged competition in the OVC Tournament.

Then there's Joe Shaheen of Eastern Kentucky and Lasse Durchnan of Middle Tennessee. And to make it worse, Gary Boss, the defending champion at number one, is still there for Austin Peay.

While the going has been tough in the singles this season, the doubles has been super. Del has combined with Tom Lie at number two and they've won their last six matches.

Perhaps it's Del's ability to control his temper that has helped his tennis career as much as anything else.

There was a time when he would slam his racket on the courts, stomp, scream and exhibit his temper tantrums.

But now, he's quiet and confident on the courts, but sometimes, he'll give an occasional yell in disgust at himself if he does something wrong.

"I guess self control is probably a sign of maturity. My dad has been pounding that into my head and he's made his point. A temper hurts you more than helps you.

"When you have a temper, you have to beat yourself and your opponent," Del added.

Del Purcell may or may not finish his career as a winner. It would be great for his last match to be a win in the league championship.

But on the other hand, if he loses, it's not the end of the world for the young man who wants to be a teacher of the sport.

Instead, he will quietly pursue his goal and take life in stride. Del Purcell will be a brilliant teacher because he has learned so much and has the intelligence, wit and personality to be able to pass it on to other young people who have dreams.

Bouton Gives Up Job To Play In Minor Leagues

By MATT YANCEY

Associated Press Writer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — "Winning is great, but the next best thing is losing. The worst thing is not feeling that feeling in my stomach, something I haven't felt in a long time."

That is the reason former New York Yankees pitcher Jim Bouton gives for his final fling at baseball. At 38, Bouton has given up a $65,000 per year job as a sports broadcaster and made a comeback attempt with the Knoxville Sox, a Class AA Southern League farm team of the Chicago White Sox.

His pay is $1,500 per month, more than the mortgage payments on his home at Englewood, N.J., a home his wife is trying to sell to finance his dream of again playing in the major leagues.

The fast ball Bouton had in compiling a 21-7 record for the Yankees in 1963 is long gone. Ten years ago, he was considered washed up, and later he drifted from one minor league team to another while writing his controversial book, "Ball Four," poking holes in America's baseball mythology.

Bouton, using only a knuckball, pitched his first game for Knoxville Thursday night. In seven innings, he gave up seven hits, including two home runs, to players half his age. The Chattanooga Lookouts, a farm club of the Oakland A's, went on to win the game 3-1 and Bouton was the losing pitcher.

"It was the World Series to me," he said afterwards. "I was just as nervous. I wasn't overjoyed, but I was pleased. Of the 92 pitches, all of them knuckballs. I only threw 10 that didn't do anything."

Bouton had tried a comeback in the latter part of the 1975 season with Portland, Ore., in the Northwest League. He gave it up last season to star in a television series based on his book. The series was canceled after only five weeks.

What Next?

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Ted Turner, colorful owner of the National League Atlanta Braves and the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association, will make his head football coaching debut April 23 in the University of Georgia's annual Red-Black game.

The announcement was made Thursday by Georgia Coach Vince Dooley.

"He's taken over the Braves and Hawks, so he might as well take the Bulldogs for a day," said Dooley of Turner.

New Coach

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Catherine Beene, tennis pro at the University Club in Houston, has been named the women's tennis coach at the University of Texas.

TENNIS

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. — Billie Jean King and Dr. Renee Richards defeated Patti Shoolman and Aleida Spex 6-0, 6-7, 6-1 in reaching the semifinals of a $20,000 women's doubles tennis tournament.

Cool Temperatures Key For Slaton's Shutout

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

The weather in Milwaukee was just what the doctor ordered for Jim Slaton.

"In warmer weather, I might not have lasted as long," said the Milwaukee Brewer pitcher.

Slaton was making his first start of the season Thursday after a long siege with the flu and with the help of 46-degree temperatures, breezed through nine no-sweat innings and handcuffed the Baltimore Orioles 5-0 on three hits.

"I would have sweated a lot more if it was warmer and it would have drained a lot more out of me," noted Slaton, who had lost six pounds during his illness and recovery.

He hadn't pitched since April 4.

In other American League action, the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Detroit Tigers 5-3; the Seattle Mariners nipped the Minnesota Twins 4-3 and the Oakland A's edged the California Angels 8-7. The Texas-Cleveland game was postponed by rain.

The Brewers took a 2-0 lead with two fifth-inning runs off loser Rudy May, 0-2. Don Money singled and took third on a double by Dan Thomas. Money scored on a single by Von Joshua and Thomas raced home when Larry Harlow bobbled the ball for an error in short center.

The Brewers made it 4-0 with a pair of unearned runs in the sixth and a single by Cecil Cooper and double by Sal Bando produced their final run in the eighth.

Blue Jays 5, Tigers 3

Pinch-hitter Otto Velez' three-run homer in the eighth inning vaulted surprising Toronto over Detroit.

With one out in the eighth, reliever John Hiller, 0-2, walked Doug Ault and Ron Fairly. Velez, batting for Sam Ewing, then hit a 2-1 pitch over the left field fence to give the expansion Blue Jays their fifth triumph in seven games and provide rookie Jerry Garvin with his second victory in two starts. Garvin gave up six hits, struck out 10 and walked two.

Mariners 4, Twins 3

Right-hander Gary Wheelock limited Minnesota to four hits in eight innings.

What Losers!

MOORPARK, Calif. (AP) — The two other teams did not enter the final event of the triangular track meet, but the Santa Barbara City College women's mile relay team still did not win it.

Since Moorpark and Ventura did not have women's mile relay teams, all Santa Barbara CC's team had to do to win the event — and the meet — was finish the final event without incident.

It did not, however. As Barbara Smith, the SBCC anchor runner, headed for the tape, an overjoyed teammate ran on the track in front of her and broke the ribbon.

That disqualified Santa Barbara in the event Wednesday and made the Vaqueros finish the meet two points behind Ventura.

and center fielder Ruppert Jones drilled a two-run homer to lead Seattle over the Twins.

Jones' third homer of the season off right-hander Pete Redfern in the eighth sent the Twins' starter to the showers and gave the Mariners a 4-1 lead and their eventual winning run.

A's 8, Angels 7
Larry Lintz scored from second base in the ninth inning on an error by shortstop Bobby Grich to give Oakland its victory over California.

Lintz led off the ninth by drawing a walk off loser John Verhoeven, 0-2, and moved to second on a sacrifice by Matt Alexander. Mitchell Page was intentionally walked and Dick Allen then fled to deep center. Lintz went to third after the catch and scored when the relay throw got away from Grich in short center field.

Signs Contract

EDMONTON (AP) — Offensive guard Bill Story, formerly of Southern Illinois University, has signed with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League.

After his collegiate career, Story played with the Detroit Wheels of the now-defunct World Football League in 1974 and the Kansas City Chiefs of the National Football League in 1975.

Racers Probably Won't Sign Many Players

wednesday was the first day of the beginning.

It was the day when college basketball coaches who have been losers saw visions of turning into winners.

It was the day when coaches who have been winners held their breath and hoped tradition would carry them through.

Wednesday was the first day a basketball player could sign a national letter of intent.

It does not end in a week. A month from now, the recruiters will still be on the phone, running through the airports and wishing they had a Hertz credit card.

Wednesday was just the day the first shot was heard by Joe Public.

Old Joe doesn't know about the time and frustration that goes into recruiting. Old Joe seems to think it's a life of winning and dining when actually it's two cold Big Macs and an order of fries in a Holiday Inn, if you're lucky.

You practically live with a kid for a weekend and just when you think you have him ready to sign, he's like that big bass that somehow got away.

At Murray State, it's sort of like a campaign headquarters on election eve. It's been a bitter and hard-fought battle and nobody really knows for sure how it's going to turn out.

Murray is close, very close, to landing some outstanding players. But Gerald Ford was close to being elected president too.

Don't expect to be reading headlines about who Murray has signed, not yet. As we've said before, the Racers are pursuing quality and not quantity. And the quieter it's kept, the better.

Whether they are black or white, from Kentucky or California, the thing is this: the object is to produce a winner.

Nobody, including fans or even those lofty people on the Board of Regents, should tell Fred Overton or Jim Calvin where the players should come from or what color they should be.

Those people don't coach basketball. If Jim Calvin and Fred Overton receive total community support, some great things are going to happen at Murray State University.

Looking Ahead

Murray will no longer be a ghost town as the high schools will resume classes Monday.

And of course, next week is going to be the heaviest week of the spring as far as sports is concerned.

Here's a look at what's going on next week:

Monday — Murray State at Arkansas State for doubleheader and Calloway golf at Fulton City.

Tuesday — Calloway golf at Lone Oak; Calloway, Marshall County and Murray High boys and girls' track teams will have a triangular at Murray High; Calloway baseball at Fancy Farm and Murray High baseball at Marshall County.

Wednesday — Murray High golf at Calloway golf, Lyon County at Calloway baseball, Mayfield at Murray High baseball and Western Kentucky will be at Stewart Stadium for a dual meet with the Racers women's track team.

Thursday — Calloway baseball at Lowes, Calloway boys and girls' track teams at Mayfield, Camden at Murray High baseball (4 p. m.); Henry County at Murray High baseball (7 p. m.) and Murray State baseball for doubleheader at Middle Tennessee.

Friday — Murray High baseball at Calloway baseball; Arkansas State and Austin Peay at Murray State for mens' track meet.

Saturday — Murray State women's track team at Lexington for KWIC Meet, Western Kentucky Conference Track Meet at Stewart Stadium and the annual Blue-Gold Game (7:30 p. m.) at Stewart Stadium.

Boys and girls' tennis at Murray High will also begin next week but we do not have a completed schedule as of yet.

Delicious food served in a beautiful dining room with a beautiful view overlooking the lake and soft organ music...that's a perfect dining experience when you visit the dining rooms of Kenlake State Resort Park. A regular menu is served during the week.

Warriors Explode To Rout Pistons 138-108

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP) — It had to be one of the biggest collapses in National Basketball Association playoff history.

The Detroit Pistons trailed by two points, 69-67, three minutes into the second half and lost by 30 Thursday night, 138-108, to the Golden State Warriors.

There is no room, now, for either team to collapse. Their best-of-three opening-round playoff series is tied 1-1. The teams meet in Oakland Sunday to determine who advances to the quarter-finals against Los Angeles.

"We simply got outplayed, that's all there was to it," said Pistons Coach Herb Brown. "We looked like rank amateurs. That's it. I'm too hoarse to talk."

He may have been understating the case.

"Yeh, I was embarrassed," admitted Detroit center Bob Lanier.

Phil Smith and Rick Barry teamed for 63 points, pacing the Warriors' triumph, before a sellout Cobo Arena crowd of 11,220. Barry scored 28 points and Smith had 28 of his 35 in the first half.

Last year, Smith averaged 31 points against the Pistons and 29.5 against them in the playoffs.

"We didn't go to anyone special. We try to think we're flexible enough to run our stuff to anybody," said Golden State Coach Al Attles. "Smith was going good and Rick hit well and we got the ball to them when they were going hot."

The Warriors, who led only 63-59 at halftime, outscored the Pistons 26-10 in a seven-minute span midway through the third quarter to pull away. Barry, Smith and Cliff Ray each scored six points in the spurt.

Ray scored 16 points, hitting all eight of his shots, including several slam dunks. Rookie Robert Parish came off the bench and scored 20.

Eric Money topped the Pistons with 31 points, while Lanier scored 23 and Chris Ford 22. Lanier, who returned from a 15-game absence a week ago after recovering from a broken right hand, grabbed 18 rebounds.

Earl Strom, one of the two NBA officials who aren't on strike, handled the game along with Dick Schaper — a referee from the semi-pro Eastern League.

Cobo Arena was picketed by four striking officials — Don Murphy, Paul Mihalic, Jim Capers and Mike Mathis. They carried signs reading, "NBA unfair to referees."

Regarding the officials, Attles said: "I told our players it was up to us to control our tempers and keep the fans off of us. You'll notice I yelled at the vet, not the rookie."

There are three NBA playoff games tonight, with all the home teams looking to even the best-of-three series at 1-1. A loss by any home team means elimination.

The Cleveland Cavaliers entertain the Washington Bullets, the San Antonio Spurs are home to the Boston Celtics, and the Chicago Bulls entertain the Portland Trail Blazers.

Tonight's Appearance Will Be 500th In Succession For Rose

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "It's not a pride thing. It just seems that the more I play, the better I play," said Cincinnati Reds star Pete Rose, who appears in his 500th consecutive game tonight, one day after his 36th birthday.

It's the longest streak among active major leaguers, but far short of the National League record of 1,117 set by Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs.

Rose hopes the occasion will be happier than events of the past week.

The Reds, off to their worst start in years, enter a weekend series against the San Diego Padres with a five-game losing streak and currently reside in last place in the National League Western Division with a 2-5 record.

Rose, who holds seven all-time Reds' records in 15-plus seasons, has not missed a game in Sept. 26, 1973 when Manager Sparky Anderson rested him for the playoffs.

"I like to play," said Rose, who will become the first Red in 15 years to play in 500 straight since Vada Pinson compiled a 508-game string between 1959 and 1962.

"I have a tendency to get sluggish if I sit out a game. I lose my momentum. That's why early in my career I had a tough time making the All-Star games. I don't usually come alive until July or August," he said.

Rose holds the all-time record and its originator in reverence.

"You have to give Lou Gehrig credit. He went 14 years without missing a game. It's rough. It's hard to keep the body going that many years," said Rose, who hasn't missed a game due to injury since 1971, when he suffered a shoulder injury while diving for a ball.

Gehrig, the Iron Horse of the New York Yankees, set the record of 2,130 games between June 1, 1925 and April 31, 1939.

Rose attributes his durability to conditioning.

"I've always been a strong player. Sure, there are times when a rest would probably help, but in the past it's hurt me. Joe Morgan and I are opposite when it comes to that. Joe will play and play and play, then take one or two days off and bounce back like a new man. He's revived. It really helps him."

Rose thrives on daily duty. It builds up his stamina and knowledge of the pitchers he faces.

"I always seem to do better the last couple months. One year I went 4-for-5 the last day of August, got 52 hits in September and had a 4 for-5 day on the 1st of October. It came out to 60 hits in 30 games," said Rose.

Rose, who has missed just seven games in seven years, says it is a matter of accepting aches and pains.

"I have my share of problems, but I just try not to let people know when I don't feel good."

One year, Rose played the first month of a season with a heavily wrapped leg "but nobody knew about it except Sparky Anderson."

Rose admits there was one occasion when pride entered into issue.

"We were playing the New York Mets and John Matlack was pitching. I had hurt myself running into the stands, but I wasn't about to sit out. I'd still be hearing about it if I had," he said, referring to the clubhouse needling between players.

Nice Luck

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — An unidentified ticket holder correctly selected the first three finishers in the seventh and ninth races at Rockingham Park Thursday night, winning the Twin Trifecta Dynamite Jackpot for a record $32,116.10.

The previous record was $15,079.30 won April 5.

Flyers Trying To Win And Stay Out Of Jail

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer
The Philadelphia Flyers don't need to be reminded what happened in last year's quarter-final when they played the Maple Leafs in Toronto. They don't need to be told that four of their players await June trials after having been charged with criminal actions stemming from incidents during the games.

They also don't have to be reminded that they've lost the first two games of this year's quarter-final to the Leafs and now must win four of the next five — three of them at Toronto, where Ontario Attorney General Roy McMurtry might well be in attendance to make sure no more "criminal" mischief takes place.

That doesn't matter to Flyers left wing Ross Lonsberry. "All that matters now is winning some hockey games, and we'll do what we have to do, even if it means the entire team must be bailed out of jail for the games."

"Last year is history and it won't affect us now."

History seems to be repeating itself in the other National Hockey League playoff series, which shift to Buffalo and Los Angeles for games tonight and to St. Louis Saturday night.

The New York Islanders, who have won all four of their

Cardinal Kiddie Korps Steals Show From Mets

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It was Senior Citizens Day at Shea Stadium but the St. Louis Cardinals' Kiddie Korps stole the show.

"St. Louis might be the darkhorses," said New York Manager Joe Frazier after the highflying, young Cardinals disposed of the Mets 4-1 Thursday and boosted their record to 5-1, all on the road.

After winning three games in Pittsburgh, the Cards were shut out by the Mets' Tom Seaver Tuesday, but bounced back with a pair of victories. The hungry Redbirds are beginning to make believers of preseason experts who consigned them to fourth place in the National League East.

"Pittsburgh and New York are strong enough clubs to make or break you," said 37-year-old left fielder Lou Brock, the club's elder statesman, "and usually they break you more than make you."

Brock is caught up in the club's early-season spirit of success, but it doesn't surprise him.

"I got that feeling the last six weeks of last season," he said. "This club was 80 per cent young, inexperienced players who were just happy to be in the major leagues and were away by the opposition. But the last six weeks they adopted the attitude that they would stand up and fight and not be denied. What you see now are guys determined to prove they're big league ballplayers."

The young lions include first baseman Keith Hernandez, 23; shortstop Garry Templeton, 22; right fielder Hector Cruz, 24; and rookie relievers John Urrea, 22, and Johnny Sutton, 24. Templeton and Hernandez each drove in a run Thursday while newcomer Tony Scott, who has less than two years of service in the majors, slammed a two-run triple while filling in for center fielder Bake McBride.

When the Mets nipped winner Bob Forsch for a run in the seventh, Urrea came on and struck out Felix Millan, annually one of baseball's toughest hitters to fan. That ended the threat and Urrea allowed one hit over the last two innings to record his second save in as many big league appearances.

In the only other National League game Thursday, the San Francisco Giants outscored the San Diego Padres 8-4 as Jim Barr pitched a seven-hitter and Bill Madlock and Willie McCovey belted two-run homers.

Madlock also had an RBI single to go along with his second homer in two games as the Giants took the series from the Padres 2-1. Barr evened his record at 1-1 with the victory, striking out a career-high 11 men and walking two.

Jerry Turner and pinch-hitter Merv Rettenmund hit solo homers for the Padres while Gary Thomasson, Darrell Evans and Madlock all collected two hits to pace the Giants' 12-hit attack.

Resurgent Johnny Miller In Lead At Tourney Of Champions

By BOB GREEN

"I've been playing bad that long, except for the Kaiser and the British Open. This isn't something that's just come up in the last couple of months. I've been playing pretty bad golf for a year."

"But, I haven't really been down on myself. I've been

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — The quick getaway of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League baseball race this year lends support to the old-fashioned "spit and polish" regimen practiced by rookie manager Vern Rapp.

"We've got a spirit and a united effort that's been missing on this club for years," said veteran catcher Ted Simmons, one of the Cards' chief sparkplugs.

"I don't think ballgames are won by long hair or short hair," added outfielder Bake McBride "but we must be doing something right. This team is itching to go."

There even was no loud beef from Al Hrabosky, the Cards' ace relief pitcher who was reduced to tears when he was separated from his Fu Manchu mustache by Rapp's "clean chins" code.

"I still don't agree with that order — it's an infringement on individual freedom," Hrabosky said. "But no doubt about it, Rapp has brought this team together. We had a lot of talent. It was just ready to explode."

The Cardinals opened the season by outslugging the Pittsburgh Pirates in three straight and then came to New York for a 2-1 edge that planted them firmly atop the NL East going into Friday's home opener against Pittsburgh at Busch Stadium.

Cardinal fans, spoiled by a rich tradition of players such as Pepper Martin, Dizzy Dean, Ducky Medwick and Stan Musial, should like the bill of fare that Rapp is serving up for them in 1977. It's a interesting team — young pitchers, slashing hitters, speed and daring on the bases.

It's chief asset, however, may be its "all for one and one for all" credo — the trademark of Rapp.

"Individual performances show up in the box scores but the won-lost column is determined by how everybody plays as a team," the manager said before Thursday's game. "More than any other sport, I think baseball is a team game."

Rapp, St. Louis-born, Cardinal-cradled but part of Bob Howsam's Cincinnati system for seven years, established a stern, conservative system shortly after being named as a replacement for Red Schoendienst.

No long hair, beards or mustaches; he insisted. Jackets and ties on road trips, airplanes and public places. Emphasis on image.

"If you're going to be a major leaguer," he said. "You've got to look and act like one."

Some may say that Rapp, who never played a major league game, borrowed his disciplinary technique from Sparky Anderson, who has made it work so advantageously for the world champion Reds. It wouldn't be true: Rapp has his own style, which made him a winning manager at Little Rock, Indianapolis and Denver.

He is a pleasant, soft-spoken man — no Captain Bligh. He rarely raises his voice. He is firm but sympathetic, with a strong feeling for personal dignity and pride. He is a benevolent despot.

"For the last six or seven years, baseball has drifted too much toward individuality — everybody doing his own thing," Rapp says. "I can't swallow that. I am strong on togetherness. If we do things together, we can win together."

State Farmers To Find Out Soon On Eligibility For Low Interest Federal Farm Loans

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The federal government soon must let Kentucky farmers know whether they'll be eligible for low-interest federal farm loans to help recover from damages caused by the severest winter in decades, state Agriculture Commissioner Tom Harris says.

"If it's put off much more, it won't help the farmers," Harris said Thursday in an interview. "Time is of the essence."

Harris visited Washington several times earlier this year to urge U.S. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland to approve disaster aid for Kentucky farmers.

Estimates of damage range upwards of $175 million.

When the request for direct federal reimbursement was rejected, the state Agriculture Department asked the federal government to consider approving low-interest loans.

That was more than two weeks ago, and Harris says he is still hoping it will come through.

"I haven't been told it wouldn't," he said.

Harris said the fact that Kentucky pastures are greening in the hot spring weather doesn't have anything to do with whether farmers will receive aid.

Except, he said, it would come too late for farmers who need cash to repair fences, equipment and roads, to buy seed and fertilizer, restock their herds, and in some cases buy supplemental feed for livestock.

Although most stock has been turned out to pasture, Harris said some of it is "pretty chewed down," and farmers may have to buy supplemental feed.

He said many farmers may leave the cattle business unless beef prices improve. Harris said he receives several calls a day from farmers asking whether the request for low-interest loans has been granted.

Some may be able to get credit, and others may obtain commercial loans. But some are in too rough a position to qualify for a commercial loan, and those are the farmers who need the federal aid most, he said.

"As they start into spring, all the expenses start hitting them," Harris said. "And many don't have the cash to operate."

He said even if some farmers go out of business, it shouldn't affect the size of the Kentucky burley tobacco crop, since other farmers will probably take over poundage allocations.

He said it is too early to tell whether it will have an effect on wheat, corn or soybean crops in Kentucky.

Opinions Offered By Attorney General

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — One of the thorniest questions asked of the attorney general's office involves the relationship between a local school board and a local bank.

Specifically, the queries usually are about a possible conflict of interest if a school board member also is a bank director—when the bank is used as the school board depository.

The query has been answered in seemingly contradictory ways during the last few years.

The latest opinion, released Thursday, revises a couple of previous opinions, all of which have no force of law.

It says, in effect, that only those banking transactions which cause the school board to spend education funds create a forbidden conflict of interest.

An example it cited is the borrowing of money from a bank and paying of interest.

"To the extent that other opinions are in conflict with this opinion, they are hereby modified," Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert Chenoweth said.

The opinion was requested by George Price, executive vice president of the Bank of Somerset. Chenoweth replied:

"It is the opinion of this office that if the only transaction between a bank and the school board is the demand deposit of funds for the drawing of checks or the deposit of school monies in time deposits on which interest is paid by the bank to the school, there is no violation."

Another request from Somerset dealt with whether the mayor has power to veto a city council action firing the mayor's secretary.

City Atty. John Mandt asked that question and Asst. Atty. Gen. Walter Herdman said no.

"The mayor's veto authority is limited to those ordinances appropriating and involving expenditure of money and granting of any license, privilege or franchise," Herdman said. "Thus the adoption of a motion to fire an employee of the city would not be subject to veto by the mayor."

Herdman added that courts seem to lean to the view that a city council's action is more administrative than legislative, and thus not subject to veto.

In another opinion, state Mines and Minerals Commissioner H. N. Kirkpatrick was advised his department can require monthly fire boss reports from coal mines.

Such reports deal with gas and dangerous equipment or mine conditions that have been uncovered during inspection by a fire boss.

Asst. Atty. Gen. David Short said last year's amendment to the Mine Safety Act gives the commissioner authority to require such reports regularly.

Investigation Continues Into Shooting Incident Near Strike-Bound Mine

STEARNS, Ky. (AP) — Two security company employees remain hospitalized today as an investigation continues into a shooting incident near the Stearns Mining Co.'s strike-bound Justus mine.

State police Sgt. Jim Wilson said Thursday there are suspects in the case but no arrests have been made.

Dale Edward Worley, 33, London, and Curtis M. Hansberry, about 55, Lily, were shot Wednesday night on Kentucky 92, while attempting to pick up three guards who had walked away from the mine earlier, police said.

The men, employed by Storm Security Systems, were reported in fair condition at the Lake Cumberland Medical Center at Somerset.

The London-based security firm was hired last month by Stearns Mining Co. to guard the Justus mine, where about 180 United Mine Workers have been on strike since last July. Negotiations for a new contract broke off in January.

The strike has been marked by numerous shooting incidents, with both sides in the dispute accusing the other of blame. However, Wednesday's incident was the first in which anyone has been injured, officials said.

According to Robert Storm, president of the security firm, three guards at the Justus mine left the property at about noon Wednesday, heading southwest through a wooded area to avoid pickets on the other side of the mine.

Sometime after dark, Storm said, the three stopped at a house and telephoned the firm for a ride back to London. Hansberry and Worley were sent to pick them up, Storm said.

Before Hansberry and Worley arrived, Storm said, the three guards were overpowered by 60 to 75 armed men who took their weapons, threatened and beat them and took them to the highway to wait for the car.

When Worley and Hansberry drove up, they were surrounded by the crowd and sped away, Storm said. As they drove away from the crowd, shots were fired and the two men were injured, he said.

Worley and Hansberry drove several miles before stopping for help at a house, Storm said.

He said the three guards from the Justus mine, whom he declined to name, were later released near Williamsburg. A spokesman for Blue Diamond Coal Co. of Knoxville, parent firm of the Stearns operation, said the incident was under investigation.

Ben Elliott, a UMW spokesman, said the union also was looking into the matter.

Respite From Fires Is Only Brief One

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Rains that flooded eastern Kentucky mountain communities last week put a damper on forest fires in the area, but only briefly, a state forester says.

Woods at higher elevations were dry enough to burn before the week was out, according to Charles Prather, fire control chief for the state Division of Forestry.

"We had some fires last Thursday. It surprises a lot of people," Prather said Thursday. "They just don't realize how dry it can get in such a short time."

He said frequent gentle rains, not a sudden deluge like last week's, are needed to keep the woods safe from fire.

"It only takes two or three hours of direct sunshine on the south slopes of those mountains and the moisture is gone out of the leaves and grass and twigs," he said. "The soil is still damp but the top layer of grass and twigs is dry."

The dampness of the soil causes added problems, he said, including slippery going for the "fire plows" used by fire-fighting crews.

"They're crawler tractors, but we have to watch it in the creeks and hollows where it's soft and boggy," he said.

Also, he said, the damp earth makes fires smokier.

"The plows can get in that smoke and choke. It can get so heavy there's not enough oxygen to run a plow. Then we have to back off," he said.

"We've been having fires all week," Prather said. "We had 51 Wednesday, 62 the day before and 76 on Monday." He said he believes the number is declining because "it's been a few days since it rained and people are beginning to realize that it's dry and windy."

Wednesday's fires included a 300-acre blaze in Knott County and covered a total of 1,295 acres in 32 counties, Prather said.

Most of the fires were in eastern Kentucky, he said, "but we had four in Elizabethtown, nine in Madisonville, three in Campbellsville and four in Mayfield."

John Korb, deputy forest supervisor at the Daniel Boone National Forest, said the vast eastern Kentucky woodland had 18 fires over the weekend.

"We held most of them to less than 20 to 25 acres. We had two more Wednesday that burned 40 and two acres. Today we don't have any going," he said Thursday.

However, Korb said, "We're running a high to very high fire danger and I suspect it will be a bad weekend if we don't get some rain."

He and Prather said the fire danger is decreasing as trees develop more foliage.

"We'll definitely be out of it in another month," said Prather. "If it stays warm the worst of it could be over in another two weeks."

"We just hope for a little warm rain," he added. "If we had a quarter to a half-inch of rain every couple of days we'd be in good shape."

(Note: This is the start of a series of reviews about rock groups from the South. The columns will cover such groups as ZZ Top, Sea Level, The Marshall Tucker Band and The Atlanta Rhythm Section. In addition to these special reviews, the columns will cover other albums and other information in the music world.)

The South for over one hundred years has been submerged under reconstruction and backwardness. However, in recent years the South has regained its lost power even electing a President of the United States. Not only have there been gains politically, economically, and socially, but there have been tremendous strides in the area of music especially rock.

There are sounds from all over the South from Texas to Nashville and to the rock world's latest mecca, Atlanta and Macon, Georgia. Today we look at the rock groups that are part of the growing South.

Marshall Tucker Band Capricorn records is one of the main springboards for these sounds having produced albums for the Allman Brothers and now for Sea Level, Elvin Bishop and a six member band from Spartanburg, South Carolina with a country rock flair - The Marshall Tucker Band.

Marshall Tucker Band started their winning streak of four gold albums nearly four years ago. Now, they have released a fifth album, "Carolina Dreams" which is destined for gold perhaps a platinum album. Drummer Paul Riddle says that he is really excited about the new album. "When we cut 'Carolina Dreams' it felt as exciting as when we recorded the first album back when I was 18."

The album itself is superbly produced by Paul Hornsby who has produced all of MTB's albums. In addition to the six member band are other guest musicians such as Chuck Leavell on piano and Jai Johanny Johanson on congas, both of Sea Level, as well as Charlie Daniels and his fiddle.

The greatest cut on the LP is "Heard It In A Love Song" the smash hit that is tearing up the charts. Lead guitarists, Toy Caldwell and lead singer, Doug Gray do outstanding jobs on this cut.

Another moving cut on the album is "I Should Have Never Started Lovin' You," a rhythm and blues grabber that features Doug's powerful vocal aided by a sparkling horn section led by Jerry Eubanks.

'Television Critics Circle Award' Aired

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It looked like Tuxedo Junction. Several hundred men in boiled shirts and ladies in evening gowns were on Stage 4 at station KTTV, right off Fernwood Avenue in Hollywood.

When this many guys appear in penguin suits, it means but one thing: Another awards show. CBS, which aired it this week, called it the first "Television Critics' Circle Awards."

Even talk show host David Susskind of New York was there. It's logical. His firm produced the program and selected the 16 big-city TV critics who nominated 103 contenders in 18 categories.

After the nominating, 225 TV critics nationwide were sent ballots. They even could write in their own choices. Of the 225, 120 critics responded with votes, according to show officials.

Your observer got no ballot. Mr. Susskind's office says it thought your observer still lived in New York and sent it there. But your observer moved here last June to avoid dunning notices and ballots.

Had we received the ballot, we would have written on it, "Please leave three quarts" and resumed the poker game.

Alas, the game was interrupted anyway by orders to cover the TV critics' thing, even though we suggested it meant less to history than the first man to go over Niagara Falls in a beer firkin.

We decamped to the show's press room at Stage 6 at KTTV. There we watched on TV the show going on in Stage 4, a few hundred feet away. Weird, but this is the way award work.

Stage 6 was divided by a curtain. On one side were those who had to file award news immediately. On the other side were tables at which sundry souls sipped wine, talked and watched the TV show.

about, aiding scribes when desired, and shepherding happy awardees to a pale blue backdrop so they could have their picture took.

It was a good night for producer Susskind. ABC's "Eleanor and Franklin," which his company made, took home five critics' awards, a number matched only by "Roots," which his company didn't make.

And his awards show wasn't bad, as these things go. It was sprightly, and the speeches of awardees were mercifully brief. It would have been much better, though, had not 27 trophies been dispensed. This tended to slow down the entertainment.

The show was CBS' fourth awards bash this year. By June, the three networks will have aired 11 such events. However, one respite from this awardmania may occur — the threatened nighttime Emmy show.

Many Hollywoodians, among them Norman Lear and Mary Tyler Moore, are saying they'll boycott the industry's top backpack ceremonies.

Sally also commented about their new addition to the Elektra family - Bread. She said that this was a surprise to have them return to us.

Engineer Trades Peace And Tranquility For Life In Rhodesia

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Why would a 38-year-old engineer trade the peace and tranquility of life in the Bluegrass for a hazardous existence in Rhodesia, an African country in the throes of a bloody guerrilla war?

'Political Voyage' Charged By Roberts

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Former Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts says state Auditor George Atkins has embarked on "another political voyage" with a report which raises conflict of interest questions about the rebuilding of a road adjoining Roberts' farm.

Atkins said at a news conference Thursday that an audit report indicates irregularities in the Woodford County resurfacing project last year.

Roberts, who also was commissioner of highways at the time the 2½ mile Grassy Spring Road was resurfaced, resigned as transportation secretary recently to become secretary of public protection and regulation.

Roberts contends there was nothing illegal about the way the project was handled; that Woodford Fiscal Court designated the road as top priority for rebuilding; that the road was needed because of a landfill and that the contract was awarded in a public forum.

Atkins, however, said that Roberts, as commissioner of highways, gave the contractor, "who is his neighbor on the road in question, a blank check to build the road."

He said the original cost estimate soared from $40,000 to an actual cost of $380,000.

"When there is a 59 per cent overrun on the project...when public records are destroyed...the taxpayers are losers," Atkins said.

In a statement issued by the governor's office Thursday, Roberts said Atkins "and his staff do not understand what they have allegedly audited. Change orders are a way of life in the construction business."

Roberts implied that the audit report was political. He said of Atkins, who is a prospective Democratic candidate for governor and a factional foe of the Carroll regime:

"He kind of reminds me of Capt. Ahab (who chased the great white whale in the novel 'Moby Dick'). I think he's in blind pursuit of the great white (governor's) mansion."

Atkins rejected Roberts' defense of the road project, saying the Bureau of Highways, not Woodford Fiscal Court, ordered the project. He said the only bidder, Ed Randle, also owns an adjoining farm on the same road — land he bought from Roberts.

"One can justifiably conclude that what we have is a special project that has been given extraordinary treatment raising serious questions of conflict of interest," Atkins said. "Would a $380,000 road have been built if the commissioner of highways had not owned property on this road?"

Atkins said certain memoranda relating to the project have been destroyed. The records would have showed the road was committed before the bidding.

Atkins declined to say whether prosecution were possible. However, he said he suggested to Atty. Gen. Robert Stephens and Commonwealth's Atty. Ray Corns that they reread the statutes concerned with conflict of interest. Stephens and Corns — along with Gov. Julian Carroll — were sent copies of the audit report, he said.

Roberts' transfer out of the Transportation Department may have been linked to the audit, Atkins said. He said the move occurred only a few days after the governor's office learned of the investigation.

adventure and excitement and a whole new way of living," Gary Hale said in an interview Thursday. "The idea just sort of popped into his head, and it seemed like it would be the place to go."

Like his older brother, Gary Hale, 33, admits to being the adventurous type too. He said he's trying to get a job now with a travel agency, but that if that falls through he may join his brother in Rhodesia.

"I've got a little money saved up, I'm single, and I just might go too," said Gary.

"I've got itchy feet, like him." In an Associated Press story from Ruwa, Rhodesia, earlier this week, Sheldon Hale was quoted as saying he liked the pioneer spirit in Africa. He indicated he wasn't worried about Rhodesia's policy that immigrants who stay longer than two years must serve in the military.

Rhodesia, he said, is "a land worth fighting for."

Gary Hale says he's received letters from his brother frequently.

"In his last letter, he was talking about how colorful and clean and unhurried the society is," the younger Hale said. "He said he was really enthusiastic about the social and political climate. He talked about the colorfulness and friendliness of the people there."

Gary said his brother was "getting rather bored with the sort of monotonous lifestyle" in Lexington, where he lived, and "was looking for something different."

Sheldon Hale, in his letters, has "touched on the war," his brother said. But his letters emphasize for the most part that he's happy there, that he's made friends, and that he's prospering as an engineer for a Rhodesian company.

"He's mentioned the dangers, but there's excitement in that there's danger," Gary Hale said of his older brother's feelings. "He likes the frontier type atmosphere over there."

Hale's mother, Irene Hale, 59, who lives in Madisonville, said she wasn't too happy at first when her son moved to Rhodesia. But now, she says she "can see the Lord's in it."

"He didn't go to church here, but he is a church-goer over there," she said. "I've told him in a letter he had to go all the way to Africa to start going to church. It makes me happy that he started going to church, so I'll just trust in the Lord."

Informed of the Rhodesian law, Mrs. Hale said she hopes her son won't stay long enough to be required to become a soldier.

"He doesn't tell me a whole lot of these dangerous things," she said. "He knows I worry."

She said she receives about three letters a week from Rhodesia and that her son asks for her to answer, that he's curious about what's going on in his home state.

In case he's curious about what's going on in Rhodesia, Mrs. Hale said she sends him newspaper articles about the war in that country because "they probably don't write the things (about the war) there they do here."

National Guard Troops Pulling Out Of East State Flood Areas

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — National Guard troops are pulling out of flood areas in the eastern Kentucky hills today as residents turn their effort from survival to cleaning up and rebuilding devastated homes and businesses.

A large number will remain at South Williamson, an isolated community where relief has been slow in coming. Only a few will be left in other towns to help with food and water distribution, communication and other problems.

The Federal Disaster Assistance Administration (FDAA) has announced, meantime, that it will close three of its eight relief centers today where residents have been getting help and information. The remaining five centers are scheduled to close next week.

Susan Bullard, FDAA spokeswoman at London, Ky., said the 7,875 persons had applied for some type of assistance at the eight centers through Thursday.

The Corbin, Hazard and Warfield relief centers will close at the end of regular hours tonight, she said. The Prestonsburg, Middlesboro and Belfry centers will close Sunday; centers at Harlan and Pikeville will close Tuesday, she said.

"The FDAA emphasizes that although the centers will be closing within the next several days, assistance programs are still available to residents of the 15 affected counties," Miss Bullard said. She said the London FDAA field office will remain open to provide information.

State Adjutant General Richard Frymire said Thursday that of the 980 guardsmen then on duty, fewer than 100 will still be in the flood areas by Sunday.

Except for South Williamson, "the emergency phase has passed," said Tom Little of the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services.

The homeless are finding food and shelter at hospitals, schools, churches and the homes of friends and relatives, he said. "There's nobody in danger of not having someplace to stay or something to eat."

The Department of Transportation will take on part of the cleanup effort as the guardsmen leave, said Stuart Victor, administrative assistant to Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson.

Victor said the Transportation Department will quickly move men and machines in to help clean mud and debris from the streets of stricken communities.

Local officials have been urged by Gov. Julian Carroll to turn as much cleanup work as possible over to private contractors or the Army Corps of Engineers so that the federal government will assume the cost.

During his third tour of the flood areas, Carroll on Wednesday told local officials that communities can be reimbursed by the federal government if they hire contractors for cleanup work, but all National Guard activities are paid for the state.

Little said Thursday that the cost of keeping the National Guard on duty, including salaries, fuel and other expenses, was approaching $50,000 a day.

"The cost of operations of the guard is a cost against the commonwealth, while the cost of our operations is recoverable from the federal government, Victor said.

"We expect to bring in additional men and equipment from areas not affected by the flood. This is an emergency situation and it is seen as such here," he said.

Streets and sidewalks in the mountain towns were piled high with soggy store merchandise and belongings from homes.

Cleanup efforts clogged traffic and police vainly tried to deal with what state police Lt. David Patterson at Pikeville called "New York City traffic on wagon roads."

With the piles of debris and drying mud, Patterson said, "Downtown has a smell that's almost a deathly, contaminated smell."

Police in several of the towns wore surgical masks while directing traffic, to filter choking dust from the drying mud, and one National Guardsman in South Williamson directed traffic wearing his gas mask.

South Williamson is at the center of a 40-mile stretch of the Tug Fork of the Big Sandy where homes and trailers were washed away and smashed by the flood.

The area is at the eastern edge of Pike County, separated from the nearest sizeable town, Pikeville, by 30 miles of rugged mountains. The flood wiped out communications and there are still only three telephone lines serving the area.

"We feel like a lost people over here," said William F. Blackburn III, 24. He and his father, William F. Blackburn Jr., a certified public accountant, have worked to coordinate flood relief efforts.

For days after the flood, before federal and state help arrived, "it was just citizens doing it here," Blackburn said.

Carroll acknowledged that the situation in South Williamson "has not been good. Not only were we not aware of the damage, but the people in the county seat (Pikeville) were not aware."

Blackburn said emergency shelter needs are being met by a hospital, schools and churches as well as friends and relatives of the homeless, and that National Guard shipments of food are easing that shortage.

"Our biggest need is to continue to keep the food coming in here," he said. "And we need hundreds of men, and equipment, to clean up."

South Williamson residents, he said, "have mud a foot deep on their floors. We'll be at this a good year."

Blackburn said he was encouraged by Carroll's visit. "Hopefully with this meeting we'll get something done," he said.

Art Works On Display At Library Here

The Calloway County Public Library has on display a joint exhibit of art paintings by Simone Taylor and Sally Gay. Simone Taylor (Mrs. Robert Taylor) has been painting for about two years and uses oil on canvas. She was born in France but has been a resident of Calloway County since 1961. Painting is her hobby.

Sally Gay uses oil painting on canvas and has also been painting for about two years as a hobby. Ms. Gay is retired now and came to Calloway County from Chicago.

Both artists are members of the Murray Art Guild. Art Guild members were invited to display their works at the Public Library at scheduled times. Ms. Gay and Mrs. Taylor's works will be shown through the month of April.

"The public is invited to drop by the Library to view this art exhibit," a library spokesman said.

Method Of Returning Satellites Developed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An aerospace engineer whose colleagues call him the "garbageman of space" has developed a way to pluck orbiting satellites from space and bring them safely back to earth.

The plan is the first practical method devised for clearing some 3,000 manmade objects now littering the galaxy hundreds of miles above the earth, said Dr. Marsil Kaplan of Pennsylvania State University.

Kaplan said he presented the proposal this week to the National Aeronautics Space Administration, which commissioned his research and is considering the plan for the Space Shuttle program in mid-1979.

The Defense Department also is "very interested" in the retrieval proposal as a way in which foreign satellites could be captured if they posed a threat to the United States, Kaplan said.

"It is getting messy up there, and the Air Force may be thinking it would be cheaper to retrieve the satellites than to continue tracking them," Kaplan said.

He said the main reason for bringing the space junk back to earth is so scientists could study those that failed and relaunch others, saving millions of dollars. The satellites cost between $2 million and $40 million.

"The biggest obstacle to capturing objects in space is the fact that many of them are spinning or tumbling very quickly, making it unsafe for a retrieval vehicle to link up with a target — particularly if there are people in the object," Kaplan said.

Under the plan, the space shuttle would carry a cargo of water and point a giant nozzle at the spinning satellite. Because water in a vacuum freezes when it strikes an object, the satellite would temporarily be coated with ice. As the ice turned from solid to gas, Kaplan said, it would slow the satellite's momentum, permitting a linkup.

Kaplan said satellites that are not spinning pose no problems other than hookup.

Kaplan and Douglas Freeland, a graduate assistant, developed the retrieval method during a 32-month study commissioned by the NASA Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

For years the space center has puzzled over what to do about costly satellites orbiting uselessly. Scientists have been concerned that the space junk could cause an outer space collision. While the probability of that happening is small, Kaplan said, the Air Force does track all manmade objects over a certain size.

THAT BEAUTIFUL LEVERAGE

One of the great advantages in real estate investment is that wonderful word called leverage. In its simplest terms, it means using someone else's money to vastly increase your profit potential.

Real estate has traditionally been very good security for loans. This means that real estate can be acquired with a smaller percentage of cash outlay than most other investments.

Leverage arises because ALL of the income and ALL of the appreciation in property value belongs to the property holder regardless of the amount of the loan.

To illustrate, assume a $100,000 property was purchased for only $10,000 cash and a $90,000 mortgage loan. Five years later, the same property is sold for $150,000 (a 50% gain in value). After paying off the $90,000 mortgage, the investor would realize, not a 50% gain, but rather a 500% gain on his actual cash investment because he only invested $10,000 not $100,000 for the property.

Consulting with people about their real estate needs is our specialty. Drop by Purdom & Thurman on the court square or call Pat Mobley 753-4451 or 753-8958. We're here to help!

Gordon To Decide On Busing

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge James F. Gordon is expected to decide by next Wednesday whether Jefferson County first-graders will be bused next fall under his 1975 desegregation order.

Thomas L. Hogan, a civil rights attorney, has argued that first-graders must be bused next fall if the schools are to eliminate all vestiges of segregation.

Hogan argued, in a brief filed this week, against schools Supt. Ernest Grayson's request that first-graders be exempt from busing during the 1977-78 school year.

Attorneys for the school board have argued that busing first-graders would severely inconvenience the school system because the children would have to be bused separately from older pupils.

Suit Filed To Stop Project

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A central Kentucky environmental group and 35 individuals have filed suit in U.S. District Court requesting a permanent injunction to halt the planned widening of the Paris Pike between Lexington and Paris.

Bluegrass Land and Nature Trust Inc., the principal plaintiff in the suit, filed Thursday, names U.S. Transportation Secretary Brock Adams and state Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson as defendants.

The plaintiffs contend the controversial project to widen a 12-mile stretch of road would destroy the scenic and historic nature of the two-lane highway.

The Kentucky Heritage Commission last March approved nomination of a section of the pike to the National Register of Historic Places.

Right of way acquisition already has begun on the project.

Prison Term Possible For Livermore Man

He said the charges against Snodgrass "stem from the discovery of recording equipment attached to the telephones of the Ohio County Board of Education in Hartford."

Snodgrass has been released on $2,500 bond.

A final report from the 33 subcommittees making up the task force is expected by the end of the year.

A native of Calloway County, Vinson has been the Murray State alumni director since October, 1968. He received his undergraduate degree in 1949 at Murray State, and his master's degree at the University of Kentucky in 1950.
